

Abstract of the Disclosure

Prior methods of ordering goods over the Internet do not provide real time updating of inventory and customer information, nor do they permit access from multiple 5 Internet-accessible devices such as personal digital assistants and WAP wireless telephones. The present invention provides a solution to that problem.